FROM BLESSED ILDEFONSO SCHUSTER ON TODAY'S EPISTLE AND GOSPEL (1930): Then follows a passage from the First Epistle of St Peter (5:6-11). The trials and temptations of this life must be borne in a spirit of humility and faith; of humility because they are permitted under the mighty hand of God, of Whom no creature has the right to ask, "Why dost Thou act thus?" of faith because God never abandons the afflicted soul, and because suffering sends forth a fragrance which attracts the divine Spouse. The persecution of which St Peter here speaks is that of the Vatican pyres ordered by Nero after the burning of Rome. The Apostle alludes to it also in chapter four, verse twelve, comparing that fierce trial to a fire, in words which clearly refer to the cruel torments inflicted on the Christians by those dreadful human "torches" that lighted up Nero's festivals in the Vatican Circus. The Gospel (Luke 15:1-10) shows us the usual kind of audience that listened to the words of Jesus—publicans and sinners. The heart of the Saviour found itself at home, as it were, amongst them, and transfused into those unfortunate listeners the trust and the joy which filled it. Whilst He related to them the parable of the Good Shepherd seeking His lost sheep on the mountain-side, or that of the woman turning her house upside down in order to find the missing groat, He was truly accomplishing that of which he spoke, for at that very moment by those discourses in the open country or at the corners of the streets He was searching for the soul of the erring sinner.

God allows the angels in heaven also to partake of His joy over the penitent sinner, since the saints share in these feelings of divine compassion towards fallen humanity, the more so as man is called upon to fill those places in heaven left empty by the fall of the apostate angels.

Consecration of the Sick to Mary: O kind and good Mother, whose own soul was pierced by the sword of sorrow, look upon us while, in our sickness, we arraign ourselves beside Thee on the Calvary where Jesus hangs. Dowered with the high grace of suffering, and hopeful of fulfilling in our own flesh what is wanting in our sharing of Christ's passion, on behalf of His Mystical Body, the Church, we consecrate to Thee ourselves and our pain. We pray that Thou will place them on that Altar of the Cross to which Jesus is affixed. May they be little victims of propitiation for our salvation, for the salvation of all peoples. O Mother of Sorrows, accept this consecration. Strengthen our hopeful hearts, that as partakers of Christ's sufferings we may also share in his comfort now and for evermore. Amen.
